

The Leibniz Institute of Agricultural Development in Transition Economies (IAMO) in Halle (Saale) offers one position as

Post-Doctoral Researcher
Agricultural Markets Department / China Research Group

Salary: 100 % of E13 TV-L level (German public services scheme)

Starting date: January 15, 2019

Duration: 36 months

Work place: IAMO, Halle (Saale), Germany

Application deadline: November 30, 2018

The Post-Doc researcher will be responsible for the organization, implementation and coordination of research activities on food consumption and income dynamics in China. These tasks involve the preparation of high-quality publications in international journals, the acquisition of related third-party funds, maintaining and enhancing the group's research network and the supervision of Master and PhD students. Further, the researcher is expected to contribute to administrative tasks in the scope of IAMO's China International Research Group, for instance the organization of scientific events.

What we expect

- Excellent doctoral degree in agricultural economics;
- Outstanding publications in the field of food consumption, food marketing and/or nutrition (according to qualification and experience level);
- High expertise in quantitative methods and statistical software (Stata, R, SPSS);
- Own research network in China;
- High proficiency in English and Chinese (oral and written).

What we offer

- Outstanding international and multidisciplinary research environment;
- Generous financial support of research visits, academic trainings, and participation in academic conferences;
- Excellent administrative support and working facilities;
- Established network of universities and research institutes in Germany and China;
- Family-friendly working conditions.

Application procedure

Electronic applications (in English language) should be submitted as one pdf-file to Ms. Antje Elsner (elsner@iamo.de) and should contain following documents:

1. Curriculum vita;
2. Copies of all relevant transcripts and certificates of bachelor, master, and PhD;
3. Statement highlighting the applicant's contribution to the IAMO International China Group research strategy (max. 2 pages);
4. One journal publication that represents applicant's qualification and competences;
5. Names and contact information of two academic referees.

About us:

IAMO (www.iamo.de) is a public research institute that pursues basic and applied research in the field of agricultural economics. It offers an excellent infrastructure and a stimulating research environment in an international, ambitious, and multidisciplinary team. IAMO is a member of the Leibniz Association, a German network of non-university research institutes (www.leibniz-gemeinschaft.de). The advertised position is located at the Department for Agricultural Markets, Marketing and World Agricultural Trade of IAMO, which is one of IAMO's three scientific departments and focuses on problems relating to the functionality and coordination of markets along agrarian added-value chains in countries in economic transition. The successful candidate will contribute to the work of IAMO's China International Research Group. The group is dedicated to conducting comprehensive and coordinated analyses of the dynamics of agricultural, social-economic and ecological processes in China's rural areas (<https://china.iamo.de>). The city of Halle (Saale) (<http://www.halle.de/en/Home/>) is located in East Germany, near Leipzig, and offers an attractive as well as affordable living environment.

Equality of opportunity is part of our personnel policy. Female researchers are strongly encouraged to apply. Disabled applicants with adequate qualification will be preferentially considered.

For questions regarding the advertised position please contact Dr. Lena Kuhn (Email: kuhn@iamo.de, Tel: +49 345 2928323).
